TRUST FIGHTS A MILLION MEN.

(Special to The Evening World.)
PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 5.—President Shaffer and his associates are busily engaged to-day planning what is expected to prove the greatest strike in history.
Until these plans are completed the general strike order will not be issued. It may be several days before all the men are ordered out.
President T. J. Shaffer and Secretary John Williams, of the Amalgamated Association, spent Sunday in Washington City.
While there they conferred with Secretary Morrison and other officers of the American Federation of Labor. It is said they were given positive assurances that the 1,000,000 members of the A. F. of L. would aid them in every possible way in the fight against the Billion-Dollar Steel Trust.

President Shaffer seemed greatly elated over his success in enlisting the aid of this great labor organization.

WAR DECLARED BY THE TRUST.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 5.—President Shaffer arrived at the Amalgamated Association headquarters at noon and called the newspaper men to his private office. When asked if a settlement could have Umpire—Mr. Dwyer.

(Special to The Evening World.)
POLO GROUNDS, Aug. 5.—In a game that almost gave 10,000 Gotham fans heart disease the Giants lost the first half of the double-header with Philadelphia this afternoon. The final score was: Philadelphia, 3; New York, 0.
Three to one against them was the score when the Giants came to the bat in the last half of the ninth. Not a roofer in the 10,000 thought the home team had a chance to win. Hickman first flied out at bat, was an easy victim. George Davis was patient and waited for first. Then Delahanty misjudged McBride's fly, and he took two binges, sending Davis to third. Smith flied to center, and Davis scored.

To Honest John Gangel belongs the credit of tying the score. He brought McBride over the plate by a slashing single to right after two were out. In the tenth inning Umpire Dwyer robbed the Giants of a chance to win by calling Selbach out on a high and wide one that would have passed him down. Then Dwyer clinched it for the Quakers by putting Selbach out of the game for kicking. Van Zandt was sent to left field in the eleventh and began by kicking McFarland's single go by him. An error by Strang, a base on balls and two hits let the Quakers score three runs and win the game.
The crowd roared Dwyer fiercely. Taylor went in to pitch in the second game.

First Inning.
Thomas got a pass. Wolverton singled to the infield. Thomas going to second. Flick's sacrifice out, Hickman to first. Gangel advanced his mates a base each. Delahanty flied to McBride. Thomas scored and Wolverton going to third on the throw in. Douglass flied to Gangel. No runs.

The Quaker man's a quiet 'unassum' sort of 'cuss; Don't like to get a fightin' Or mixed up in a muss; But once you get him started An' his Quaker blood is hot, He'll bat ye clear from York To Philadelphia, like as not! So git a gait on, Giants, You've got to bump to-day; An' if you lack that Quaker 'cuss We'll blow ye—whoop! hooray!

Van Halten struck out. Selbach threw his bat at the ball when Douglass went for his foul tip and was hissed for it and called out, of course. Strang struck out. No runs.

Second Inning.
Jennings sent a soarer to Van Halten. Hallman rapped to Gangel, who gave Taylor the assist, covering first. Cross popped to Gangel. No runs.
Hickman fouled to Douglass. Davis singled over third bag and stole second right away. McBride flied to Flick. Jennings stopped Bowerman's crack with a rebound and spoiled a base hit. He gave the put out to Duggeby. No runs.

YOUNG GIRL POISONED BY CHLORAL.

She Is Believed to Have Met the Same Fate as Jennie Bosschietter.

Fishermen to-day found seventeen-year-old Hattie Cassell dying on the sand just back of Greenwood Lake Glen, twenty-two miles northwest of Paterson, N. J. Her hair was thrown back, her clothing was in disorder and she was breathing convulsively.
She was unconscious, and all efforts to revive her were unavailing. The fishermen at once notified her parents, who kept a boarding-house a little distance up the shore.
Her mother had the girl taken home, and sent for Dr. Huston, of West Milford, about eight miles away. Before he arrived the young woman was dead. She did not regain consciousness.
Dr. Huston made a hasty examination and learned that she had been very ill. He also found traces of chloralhydrate poisoning, the same drug that was administered to Jennie Bosschietter.
Dr. Huston considered the case so important that he telephoned to Paterson for Dr. Van Noort and the two will make a post-mortem examination.
Both physicians are of the opinion that there was foul play, and this belief is shared by Prosecutor Emley, who has begun a thorough investigation.
County Physician McBride left this afternoon for Greenwood Lake Glen, and will join the other physicians in making an examination of the body.
Greenwood Lake Glen is visited by excursionists and has become quite a favorite with the young men visitors.
It was not known that she was especially attached to any one young man. The police, however, are working on the theory that she was killed by some one who had been keeping company with her.
The place where Miss Cassell was found is wild and lonely. Her parents say she had left home last evening for the avowed purpose of taking a walk. They had known of no love affair and were deeply distressed at the information that their daughter was in trouble.

CANFIELD WAS HALED TO COURT

Gambler's Examination Goes Over in Saratoga Until To-Morrow.

(Special to The Evening World.)
SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 5.—The prosecution of Richard A. Canfield, of the Saratoga Club, by lawyers representing Dan A. Stuart and Peter De Lacy, of New York City, and ex-Village President, Cole Mitchell, of Saratoga, is generally considered here as a bad case of "betting even" and is severely criticized by all the sporting fraternity and citizens in general.
Canfield, accompanied by Counselor W. J. Miner, appeared before Justice of the Peace Andrus this morning in answer to warrants charging Canfield with being a common gambler.
The defense made several objections to the end that the deposition of John M. Boland, detective, of New York City, upon which the warrant was founded, was absolutely barren of facts.
In order to examine legal authorities on the matter, court adjourned until to-morrow.
An application of Boland against Canfield, charged with violating the State liquor tax law, was also taken under similar adjournment till to-morrow.
Robert Pinkerton, this afternoon, petitioned the court to allow him to display any paraphernalia of betting. This is a precautionary measure due simply to the fact that the men who are trying to close Canfield's club-house may turn their attention to the track.

PAINTER KILLED BY ELEVATOR.

A Dozen Passengers in the Broad Exchange Building Shocked.

A dozen passengers, including three women, in one of the express elevators in the Broad Exchange Building this morning received a shock that will not soon be forgotten.
The elevator was descending from the twelfth floor with its usual speed when it struck and instantly killed George Smith, a painter, twenty-six years old, of Thirty-ninth street, Brooklyn.
The Broad Exchange Building, the largest of its kind in the world, is all but completed.
Finishing touches on the elevators are being made. Several painters are employed in decorating the interior work, and their position is a precarious one, the men being in constant danger of the descending cars.
Smith had his head through the door and was at work on a piece of iron below him when the elevator struck him. Smith gave no cry of pain. His death was instantaneous.

FIREMAN JUMPS OVERBOARD.

Commits Suicide at Sea After a Spree.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5.—Capt. HILL, of the steamship Belgeland, which arrived at this port to-day from Liverpool, reports that Fireman Patrick Grimes committed suicide when the big vessel was three days out from Liverpool by jumping overboard.
Grimes sprang into the water after Grimes while the vessel was going at full speed, but although he made a heroic effort, he was unable to save him. Grimes, who had been drinking heavily, walked to the rail and told to a number of companions: "Good-by, boys, I'm going to save you."

ROBBERS BOUND A LONE WOMAN.

Daring Act in Daylight of Six Men in Plain-field, N. J.

A daring robbery was committed at the house of Mrs. Mary Denke, on Duncellen avenue, Plainfield, N. J., this afternoon. Mrs. Denke was alone in the house when a party of six men ransacked the door bell.
She went to the door and opened it, when she was confronted by the men, who gruffly demanded money. Mrs. Denke said she had none in the house and the men pushed back the door and entered.
Two of them carried clubs. According to the woman's story the men seized her and bound and gagged her and then tied her to the bedpost. They then went through the house from top to bottom, making a thorough search of trunks and drawers. They secured $200 in money and a quantity of valuables, after which they departed.
Some time after the men had gone a neighbor happened to call to see Mrs. Denke and found her still tied to the bedpost and in an exhausted condition.
After she had been released word was sent to Chief of Police Kiely, who immediately sent out officers to scour the city and vicinity for the robbers.

Mrs. Margaret Meyer, one hundred years old, of No. 525 West Fifty-second street, has been missing since yesterday morning, when she started to go to the Church of the Sacred Heart, in West Fifty-first street. She was a little weak-minded, and it is thought she has wandered away.

Two young women who are believed to have been drugged were found in a vacant lot by the police of Coney Island this morning. One of the girls, Elsie Wilson, who it is believed lives in Manhattan, was unconscious. The Coney Island police worked over her for three hours, but failed to revive her, and she was sent to the Emergency Hospital. The physicians there say her condition is serious.
The other girl is Annie Smith. Soon after she was found the police succeeded in reviving her somewhat, but she seemed to be in a dazed condition. She said she and the Wilson girl had gone to Coney Island last night. Some men invited them into a saloon and they drank two glasses of beer. She saw one of the men put something in their beer. Soon after that she became unconscious and she did not know anything till the police found her to-day.

HAS NEW PLAN FOR THE BRIDGE.

Hildenbrand Has a Scheme Calling for Another Story.

W. Hildenbrand, superintendent of John A. Hildenbrand's Sons, has a scheme for relieving the traffic on the Brooklyn Bridge, which he not only considers practical, but can be done at a cost of $2,000,000.
Mr. Hildenbrand is positive that another story could be added to the bridge without interfering with the traffic. It will, of course, be necessary to remodel the whole structure, but in such a way as to offer no interference in the present transportation. It would double the strength and double the present carrying capacity.
Your new cables would be used with new anchorages just back of the old ones. All the trolley and train traffic would be restricted to the tower deck of the bridge, which would leave the upper free for wagon and pedestrian traffic. Mr. Hildenbrand says he could strengthen the present structure, with an expenditure of $1,000,000 without disturbing a trolley. It would take five years to complete the double-decker.
